30 YEARS, ARTISTS, PLACES - MAJOR TOURING IRISH ART EXHIBITION

One of the most significant exhibitions of Irish artists in recent years will be launched in Cavan on Culture Night 2016 as part of an extensive nationwide tour. The exhibition marks 30 years since Local Authorities embarked on providing for the arts locally, featuring 30 artists and 30 places.

This is a must see, not just for the extraordinary line up of Irish artists who rarely find themselves curated into one room, but for the stories of how they each came to be purchased, commissioned or acquired by local authorities, therein lies the real narrative; the quiet, genuine and imaginative support for Irish artists demonstrated by our local government for the past 30 years.

Sept 16th - October 14th

Theatre

Monday, Wednesday, Friday 10.00 - 1.15 / 2.00 - 5.15

'Dad in the Kitchen'

by Philip Doherty

€5

A new theatre experience from the pen of Philip Doherty about a day of catastrophe when an undomesticated father is left alone in the kitchen to fend for himself. Sound, light and place, within an immersive space, will play on the realm of the audience's imagination, bringing the words out of the dark into an atmospheric, installation style production. This comedy will premiere on Culture Night before running as a lunchtime show in Townhall Cavan for the rest of September.

Writing about your work -
Joanne Laws

Professional Development Workshop in partnership with Visual Artists Ireland, Townhall Cavan Arts Space and Cavan County Council Arts.

As an artist you will be required to write about your work for press releases, marketing purposes and for proposals or applications. As press, galleries and funding bodies don't have the capacity to interview everyone seeking press coverage, exhibitions and supports, they need to get a picture of who you are very quickly. The Artists ability to convey this information in Statements, biogs and CV's will assist people to gain an understanding of what it is you do. The CV can be augmented by a concise artist's statement and a biography.

This session will provide a workshopped approach to developing your artists statement involving writing exercises and peer feedback. Joanne will discuss do's and don'ts when preparing artists statements and CV's and assist you to develop appropriate, clear and concise language to describe your work in a way that makes it engaging, personal and accessible to most readers.

This session is designed to give artists and designers the know-how and understanding to write clearly articulated and comprehensive CV's and statements for a variety of situations such as proposals: for funding; to galleries; for job applications; for press and marketing purposes.

“Dysmorphin Time!” Comedian David Reilly with award - winning comedian Aidan Greene “Always wanted to meet the one”

Millions of people have watched Davey eat and dress online. A year ago, he wasn't comfortable doing these things in front of his closest friends. What changed? Find out as “one of Ireland's funniest up-and-comers” (entertainment.ie) explores his issues with eating and body dysmorphia.

As seen on RTÉ, BBC, MTV and in the pages of The Washington Post and Cosmopolitan. Star of Best Irish YouTube Channel Facts and co-host of the Stoneface Films Podcast. A comedy show about body image, food and Power Rangers.

“The future of Irish comedy.” Rich Hall. Edinburgh Fringe Festival Sell-Out Show 2016.

“Award-winning comedian Aidan Greene always wanted to meet the one, but his stammer always seemed to get in the way. In a classic tale of boy-meets-speech impediment, come learn why Aidan's stammer may have been the best thing to ever happen to him.”

“Aidan Greene is a multi award-winning comedian and storyteller. He's a regular across all of Ireland's top comedy clubs and festivals. Just back from a hugely successful run in Edinburgh with his show (500) Days of stammer he's an act not to be missed.

Festival of the Dead: The Otherworld

Townhall Cavan returns with the second Festival of the Dead, celebrating the Otherworld in this magical time of the year when the veil is thinnest between the physical and the spiritual Other world. After last year's spectacular inaugural festival the new arts space celebrates it's first year with a festival of colour and fire, with three neww productions. Opening with the spectacle 'Ritual' at Townhall on Friday, 'The Paradise of Fools', a fully immersive theatre experience at a secret location on Saturday, and The Great Wheel of Fire street pageant through the town on Sunday, finishing with a burning on the lake. Let go of the old and celebrate the coming winds of a glorious new year.

TOWNHALL is a contemporary arts space in Cavan

We are run by artists and champion new, cutting edge work in theatre, visual arts, film, music and dance.

We are a home for creators to express, question and celebrate life through art and most of all we are a venue where audiences can enjoy events in all art-forms.

'We'

'We' are a voluntary artist-led organisation. A collective of four local artists – Joe Keenan, Siobhan Harton, Philip Doherty, – aka trans-art and the Gonzo Theatre. We also have a board of management – skilled experts who work to support us in running the venue.

The Big Plan

Our vision is to establish a space for artists and audiences of all ages to participate in contemporary arts in Cavan, to make new work and to present that work locally and internationally.

We aim to champion new, experimental and cutting edge theatre, visual arts, film, music and dance in a regional setting with a programme of exhibitions, performance, workshops, talks, events, residencies, and research and touring projects.
